PLAYWRIGHT’S NOTE

When I was younger, I had a bird’s-eye view of my mother’s experience as she transitioned into and beyond middle age. It seemed as if a societal curtain had dropped—she gradually became invisible. What she experienced as she got older, I’ve since learned firsthand, is all too common for women in this country. When I experienced it myself, I admit it became a bit of an obsession. In writing No Such Thing, I set out to create a portrait of one woman’s struggle to step over the societal boundary lines that so many women encounter as they age past society’s view of who is relevant, attractive, and acceptable in our world. And I couldn’t be more thrilled that this play is going to premiere at my longtime artistic home, Rivendell Theatre Ensemble, whose mission it is to elevate the lives of all women through the power of theatre.

- Lisa Dillman

“Too many conflicting emotional interests are involved for life ever to be wholly acceptable, and possibly it is the work of the storyteller to rearrange things so that they conform to this end. In any case, in talking about the past we lie with every breath we take.”

—William Maxwell, So Long, See You Tomorrow

WIPEOUT, 2024

NOTE FROM THE ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Welcome to the world premiere of longtime ensemble member Lisa Dillman's NO SUCH THING directed by the talented Malkia Stampley. Plays that center women's authentic lives and offer both a meaningful and impactful experience have long been Rivendell's signature, so I cannot imagine a more appropriate way to launch our 30th Anniversary season than with another premiere from the gifted playwright who penned our enormously successful productions of AMERICAN WEE-PIE and THE WALLS. Lisa's newest play is the absolute embodiment of Rivendell's mission – a refreshing new play told from an all too often invisible perspective – a woman over sixty. At this moment of unprecedented challenges to our country and our humanity, there has never been a greater need for the theater we make and the vital stories we tell. Plays that shine an unflinching light on the toughest issues, dispel lies, promote possibilities, and offer alternative perspectives. And you have my promise that no matter what happens in our world, Rivendell will continue to develop and present these bold new stories, amplify voices that need to be heard, and provide an artistic home for women identifying artists. I am beyond excited to have you join me on this journey and delighted for the opportunity to share Lisa Dillman's NO SUCH THING with Chicago audiences.

She has served RTE as Marketing Director since 2018 and is thrilled to strengthen her writing and producing muscles as a Rivendell Ensemble member too!

LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Rivendell Theatre Ensemble acknowledges its location on the ancestral homelands of the Council of the Three Fires (the Ojibwe, Ottawa, and Potawatomi tribes). Descendants of these and other North American tribes continue to live and work on this land with us; the Chicagoland area is home to the largest number of Native Americans in the Midwest, over 65,000.

We acknowledge and strongly condemn the present territorial dispossession, resource theft, disproportionate targeting by the criminal legal system, and other ongoing crimes against Indigenous people in the United States. We commit to doing our part to right these wrongs by centering Indigenous voices and telling the truth about history in all places that our voices are heard. We further recognize our responsibility to stand in solidarity with Native leaders in our city, as we understand, teach, advocate, and respect the past and present realities of local Native Americans and their continued connection to this land.

TICKETING POLICY

Rivendell offers tickets on a sliding price scale to ensure accessibility while supporting the high-quality art our audiences enjoy. Discounts for seniors, students, military and veterans, as well as pay-what-you-can and other ticket options are available in addition to prices listed.

We never want anyone to miss a trip to Rivendell because of a tight budget.

If you don't see a ticket option that works for you, please contact us at 773-334-7728 or boxoffice@rivendelltheatre.org.

ACCESSIBILITY

A LEGACY OF ARTISTIC EXCELLENCE AND ADVOCACY FOR WOMEN'S VOICES

RIVENDELL THEATRE ENSEMBLE'S 30TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Rivendell Theatre Ensemble continually strives to find insightful work and produce bold plays that push the boundaries of its ensemble of artists, collaborators and administrators.

It has been over 100 years since the 19th Amendment was ratified, granting white women the right to vote, and almost 60 years since women of color were given that right through the Voting Rights Act. And yet today women still struggle to have their voices heard or be seen.

Serving as a narrative of change, Rivendell's mission is to elevate the lives of women through the power of theatre. We accomplish this by giving voice to women and their stories through artistic recognition of their lives with the support of an award-winning ensemble of artists, combating the inequities experienced by women in the theater landscape through gender parity at all levels of theatrical production, helping other women theater artists find artistic recognition and visibility by providing mentorship and support through subsidized theater and rehearsal space, and by creating a rewarding experience for audiences and community by being a catalyst for conversation through insightful stories and outreach.

After three decades firmly in the cultural landscape of Chicago, Rivendell Theatre Ensemble has learned one very important thing: even in a small space you can tell big stories. And telling big, impactful stories is what Rivendell does best. Artistic Director Tara Mallen founded Rivendell Theatre Ensemble in 1994 with a group of like-minded artists who understood that stories must be shared to open minds. And since its inception, Rivendell has grown to uniquely fill an important role in the Chicago and national theatre community as the only women-focused Equity storefront theatre in Chicago and one of a handful in the country. In its 30-year history, Rivendell has earned 12 Joseph Jefferson Awards and nearly four dozen nominations. It is recognized as a national force in new play development and as a home for women theatre artists, engaging over 200 artists and 3,000+ audience members each year through its mainstage season, new work development, and outreach.

Learn more about our 30th Anniversary Celebration at www.rivendelltheatre.org.

Rivendell is Chicago's leading theatre company dedicated to producing new plays focused on women's stories, experiences, and issues. Join us for a show and you'll experience great plays with provocative social themes shot through a distinctly female lens.

RIVENDELL'S MISSION:

We elevate the lives of women through the power of theatre. We cultivate a creative home for audiences and artists to explore untold women's stories while fostering an environment in which women theatre artists can thrive. Rivendell lifts up all female voices, promotes female-focused work creation, broadens awareness with fresh insights and dialogue, and advocates for women.

MAKING ART POSSIBLE

Rivendell Theatre Ensemble is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization. On the following pages we thank the donors who underwrite about 80% of our budget, complementing ticket sales and rental income to support equitable artist pay, high production values, and new play development.

If you are on this list, we thank you. You help us elevate the lives of women through the power of theatre. When you hear applause here, know that some of it is for you!

If you are not on this list yet, please join the Rivendell family by making a donation today. Every dollar makes a real difference at Rivendell—from paying theatre artists to providing the equipment and supplies they need to maintaining the facilities in which they create.

Please consider making a one-time or monthly donation at
